

DOBSON SPEAKS IN SLEMP'S BEHALF

Iowa's Former Secretary of State
Making Tour of Part of Ninth District.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
BRISTOL, Va., October 7.—George L. Dodson, former Secretary of State of Iowa, now touring a portion of the Ninth Virginia District in the interest of Congressman Slemp, addressed an audience of 600 people in the Harnett Theatre here to-night. The theatre was decorated with flags and bunting, and a large picture of Tatt, ornamented with the national colors, occupied a position at one side of the stand.

The meeting was presided over by G. E. Goodell, city chairman for the Republicans. Mr. Dodson was introduced by Congressman Slemp, who received an ovation as he took his position. The young Congressman talked thirty minutes in his introductory speech.

Mr. Dodson devoted two hours to the discussion of the tariff and to ridiculing the shifting position of Mr. Bryan upon national issues from campaign to campaign. His speech was well received, and he was justly applauded at intervals. He urged the people of the district to return Mr. Slemp to Congress, saying that in the brief time he had served he had demonstrated that he possessed the business qualities essential to a successful representative.

Mr. Dodson and Mr. Slemp spoke to 300 people at Hiltons, Scott county, last night, and to 400 at Mendota, Washington county, at noon to-day. The Bristol Republicans are preparing to give Leslie M. Shaw an ovation when he speaks here next Tuesday night.

Hon. J. Cloyd Byars, the Democratic nominee in the Ninth District, addressed the people of Damascus to-day, and was received in the most cordial manner. He is firm in the conviction that he can win, and will continue his campaign with vigor until the election.

Double Wedding.

IRWIN, Va., October 7.—A beautiful double wedding was celebrated at Byrd Presbyterian Church at 2 o'clock to-day, when Misses Nellie Poulkams Kean and Leonora Lavinia Kean, daughters of Mrs. Alice D. Kean and the late W. C. Kean, of Goochland county, became the brides of Mr. Guy Carter Morton, of Richmond, and Mr. Fred Argyle Kean, of Louisa. The ceremony was performed by Dr. D. K. Walthall, of Richmond.

The church was beautifully decorated with running cedar, ferns and goldenrod, green and gold being the color scheme. The organ was presided over by Miss Annie Simpson, of Willson, N. C. The brides entered together, preceded by the bride party, who formed a circle around the altar, immediately in front of which were two wedding bells, made of flowers, suspended from a floral arch.

The brides were attired in gowns of white messaline, tulle veils, and carried bouquets of white roses. The bridesmaids wore white, and the bridesmaids of the bride were Misses Carrie Virginia Morton, of Richmond, and Pauline Scott, of Spotsylvania, and the best men were Messrs. Richard Irby Morton and Otto T. Kean. The bridesmaids were Misses Barbara Overton Kean, of Louisa, and Edith Morton, of Richmond. Mr. Julian A. Kean, of Goochland, and Mr. David H. Leake, of Richmond, acted as ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony a luncheon was served at the home of the brides, after which the two couples left on an afternoon train for a Northern wedding tour. The wedding presents were pretty and numerous.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Kean will reside in Louisa county, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Morton will live at the home of the Kean's, in Goochland. The guests included Mrs. D. K. Walthall, of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas V. Morton, of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. R. Simpson, of Richmond; Miss H. Hunt, of Richmond; Misses Margaret and Frederica Leake, of Richmond.

Smith—Cassat.
WARRENTON, Va., October 7.—Much interest is being manifested in the wedding of Miss Eleanor M. Smith and Captain E. J. Cassat, U. S. A., which takes place to-day at the country home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, near Warrenton, Va. The wedding was celebrated at high noon, and was followed afterwards by an elaborate wedding breakfast given by the parents. The house was decorated with all the fall flowers. The bride was unattended, and entered the room on the arm of her father. She was met at the altar by Captain Cassat, who was also unattended. The bride's dress was of white messaline satin, and she carried a bride's bouquet of roses. Mr. and Mrs. Cassat left on a private train for the Northern cities, where they will make an extended stay. Mrs. Cassat has spent much time at Fort Myer with her aunt, Mrs. Frank Winter, and it was there she met Captain Cassat. Captain Cassat is the son of the late Mr. A. J. Cassat, formerly president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Many handsome and costly gifts were received. The gift of the groom was a dog collar of pearls and diamonds.

Academy—"His Honor, the Mayor."

"His Honor, the Mayor."

Joseph M. Gaites, the producer of "His Honor, the Mayor," one of the most successful musical plays of recent years, promises some new and sensational additions to the entertainment during its engagement at the Academy to-night. Just what these new features are Mr. Gaites has thus far refused to state, but it is known that the cables between New York and London have been kept very busy in his executive offices in the Knickerbocker Theatre building, New York. Little Chip and Mary Marble and the big company of pretty girls may safely be relied upon to delight their part.

Adelaide Thurston.

The people who have known Adelaide Thurston as the charming actress she is, who have admired her, and loved her for her splendid womanly qualities, will have had their feelings heightened when they have seen her in the role of Hester Temple, "The Woman's Hour," which she portrayed at the Academy of Music last night, says the Norfolk Landmark. Sweet and dainty as she always is, she was even more so last night, and those who had the good fortune to sit in her presence counted it a great favor, but unfortunately the gathering was far too large for the merits of the play and the gifted people who presented it. Miss Thurston played the part as only a true artist can, and won world's praise for her splendid work. One might write a column of the play and the splendid manner in which it was presented, and yet not tell of all its beauties. Every man and woman in the east was an artist in his or her respective part. The comedy is bright, the dialogue sprightly, the sentiment heartily and unselfish, and everything better has come to us for years. It was presented and staged under the personal direction of Mr. Frederick Paulding, himself the author, and who played the part of Roger Daneway in a masterful manner. The comedy is most charming, and was presented under the supervision of Francis Hope. Whatever Mr. Hope presents may be set down as the best, and "The Woman's Hour" takes the front rank of the splendid manner in which it was presented, and will be given this afternoon, and at night the company will close its engagement here. No one should miss seeing it.

Miss Thurston will pay her annual visit to Richmond to-morrow night and Saturday matinee and night.

FACILITIES FOR THE INSANE.

North Carolina Commission Awards Contracts for Buildings.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., October 7.—The North Carolina State Hospital Commission, having authority from the legislature to expend $500,000 in five years in enlargement of the State Hospital for the Insane and to establish epileptic colonies, after being in session all day and night, to-night, awarded contracts for ten additional buildings in connection with the hospital here, three colonies of three buildings each in the Grimes tract and one large fireproof building for convalescent women in connection with the central hospital equipment. The contracts for the buildings here were awarded to D. Grandy, of Charlotte.

The colonies will be, as far as needed, for epileptics. The additional buildings will increase the capacity over 1,000. The commission also decided to provide additional accommodations at the Morehead Hospital for consumptives, so that all white insane consumptives can be cared for there. Two special buildings, one each for men and women, to be provided, and contracts to be awarded for these later. It was also decided to provide four additional buildings for the colored hospital at Goldsboro, one each for male and female epileptics, and one each for male and female consumptives.

This contract for the Goldsboro buildings was awarded to J. F. Ange. The total cost of the buildings contracted for today is $125,000, being about all the money yet available for the work of the commission. All members of the commission were here—A. W. Webb, Asheville; W. A. Erwin, Durham; J. H. Weddington, Charlotte; E. F. Aydtell, Elizabeth City, and Dr. McNeill, Cumberland.

V. M. I.'S SHIRIRON OUTLOOK IS GOOD

V. M. I.'s showing in the opening game with William and Mary last Saturday, while nothing to be dated over was on the whole satisfactory. The team work was crude, as it must necessarily have been, but so many new men in the line-up, but abundant evidence was presented that the team will give a good account of itself before the end of the season. The two tackles, Patterson and Alexander, were both green on defensive work, but good at advancing the ball, and very fierce in charging. They are coming fast, and with a little more experience will take care of themselves in any company.

At guard Mitten was shined with Clemmer and English close up. H. Poague did well when put in at centre in the second half, particularly in defensive work, but not yet as good as Dashiell in handling the ball. H. Poague, however, is such a hard player that Mr. Roller sure to find a place for him on the team. This week he will be tried at end, and if he makes good the team will present the novelty of two brothers at the end positions. McMillan at quarter did very acceptable work, considering it was his first game. He is a particularly good runner in an open field. Porter at right half back played his usual consistent hard, effective game. McLean at full back is forming a good team with Mitten and Porter. A fourth classman from Norfolk, broke into the game at full back during the second half, and played so creditably that it is up to McLean to keep moving all the while if he wants to keep ahead of him. Mosley left half back, with a hurt shoulder, was replaced by Davant, who is a very good ground gainer, but not especially strong on defensive work. Many substitutes were put in, most of whom showed up well.

William and Mary played a very hard game, and practically held V. M. I. to a "fastidius" during the early stages of the first half, and at no period of the game did the V. M. I. players show any picky and aggressive play, although V. M. I. was getting the better of it during the last half. At tackle William and Mary is particularly strong.

V. M. I. plays Cabell's School Wednesday, at the Hampden-Sydney, Saturday, the 10th, and at St. John's, Saturday, the 11th.

condition which now surrounds the office of President, is even now—if we can trust the public press—deliberating as to whether he shall still further degrade it by becoming a crossroads hustings orator in behalf of a partisan candidate, and bringing himself to the level of the small politicians, engaged in conflict out of hatred for an opponent or for the hope of petty office.

As a citizen, I would deplore the spectacle; as a candidate I naturally would welcome it as making sure that which is already sure—the election of the Democratic national ticket.

ONLY BE SUB-PRESIDENT

Mr. Kern, speaking to Carolinians, DeWitt, N. C., October 7.—WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., October 7.—A large crowd at the Fairmont Hotel here to-day listened to an exhortation by John W. Kern, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, on "rich man's" and of Republican rule, which he declared would still further degrade it by becoming a crossroads hustings orator in behalf of a partisan candidate, and bringing himself to the level of the small politicians, engaged in conflict out of hatred for an opponent or for the hope of petty office.

As a citizen, I would deplore the spectacle; as a candidate I naturally would welcome it as making sure that which is already sure—the election of the Democratic national ticket.

whistles as his train pulled into the station. A squad of horsemen and a brass band escorted him to the square.

"North Carolina is in the list of doubtful States in the estimation of the Republicans," said Mr. Kern. "In North Carolina it is contended that the high protective tariff is an inducement for your citizens to become Republicans. It being the assumption that you wish bounties against other citizens to benefit yourselves. I am now in the heart of the greatest tobacco producing country of America, but with all your enterprise the tobacco trust has gobbled up like an omnivorous animal your products to hand them back to you at their own price for your labor and your products. It is this evil which we have not here a remedy and which throughout the nation we are struggling to remedy as we are struggling against the trusts and the monopolies, and fattens upon the necessities and the labors of Americans everywhere." Mr. Kern referred to the fact that this locality was known particularly as the German settlement of this portion of the South, and to the history of its settlement and spoke of words of encouragement to the inhabitants. He said, "protested only when denied the liberty of men and when oppressed by monopolistic laws which denied free conduct and the right of self-government."

Mr. Kern left later for Roanoke, Va.

Mistakes of Bryan.

"He thought Bryan had made some mistakes."—Senator John W. Daniel in Baltimore, Monday.

Mistakes, Senator Daniel! Is that what you call them? Can you name a time when Bryan was not "mistaken"? Let us enumerate a few of these "mistakes": (1) He was the cause of three successive national defeats. (2) He will be the cause of a fourth defeat next November. (3) In 1894 the Democrats controlled twenty-three of the forty-four States. Under his leadership they now control only thirteen out of forty-six States. (4) Free silver, 16 to 1, without the concurrence of other nations. (5) Government ownership and operation of railroads. (6) Initiative and referendum. (7) Election of United States judges by direct vote and for short terms. (8) A promise to pack the Supreme Court of the United States. (9) No government "by injunction." (10) Opposition to private contracts providing for the payment of gold. (11) Government ownership of interstate railroads and State ownership of State railroads. (12) Guarantee of bank deposits. (13) His responsibility for peripatetic preacher of Standard Oil morals, Governor Haskell, of Oklahoma.

If any one of these "mistakes" had gotten on the status books, who could tell what it would have cost the country? You, Senator, put the stamp of your disapproval on the Bryan scheme of government ownership of railroads and pointed out the political and financial ruin it would entail. And so of every one of Mr. Bryan's "mistakes." Let us give them their true name, and admit that Mr. Bryan has a head to contrive, a tongue to persuade and a hand to execute any mischief.

"Now let it work; mischief thou art foot."

"Take thou what course thou wilt."

Yes, Senator, take thou what course thou wilt; but as for me and mine, we will do all to accomplish the defeat of this mischief-maker by working and voting for William Howard Taft.
